Will I need a sponsoring dentist ?

No, Not for our program..... If you are enrolling in the course for NEW RDAEFs, you will need patients prepared for 4 posterior crowns, but our clinical faculty provide local anesthesia during the program so that you do not need a dentist present at the course.

How will the course be offered?

The hands-on portion of the course is two weekends per month. That would include both Saturday and Sunday. In addition, we will teach the majority of the didactic (lecture) in a virtual classroom online.

Do I need to be an EF1 first?

No, the course is designed for both RDA and EF1. If you are currently a RDA the functions of the EF1 are included in the program.

The chart below represents the pass/fail rates on the Dental Board EF2 Practical and Clinical Examinations via individual programs. Prior to 2015 the programs were lumped together as Northern and Southern California program statistics. We requested that the information be provided according to each programs pass/fail rates so that individuals wishing to obtain their RDAEF2 license would have a clear understanding of the differences in the programs. Although the pass rates on state examinations are not the only criteria to judge a program, they are a very good indication of the quality of education you will receive and the commitment the program is making toward you success as a dental professional. At this time, the state practical have been canceled no additional statistics are available after 2019.
